

Grief Support

The death of a beloved pet is a tremendous loss for a person and a family. Caring Pathways realizes it can be difficult to find someone who understands the feelings of grief you are having. Whether you need to process the death alone or as a family, it is important to work through the grief in order to begin healing.

Mandi Browning, M.A.

If you need support during your grieving process, please feel free to email Mandi Browning, the Caring Pathways Grief Support Specialist, at mandi@caringpathways.com.

You can also call the office for more information. We offer individual phone appointments as well as individual and family face to face sessions. We provide an opportunity to process and talk about the death of your pet while building tools to deal with your changing grief.

For more information on grief support groups, please visit our website. Just scan the code below to access the site from your phone.

In-home compassionate pet care at life's end

Mandi Browning, M.A.
(720) 287-2553
CaringPathways.com/Grief-Support

SCAN ME